To whom it may concern

I am very interested in pursuing a career with your company in the area of Information Technology. I have been very fortunate to work previously with some of your staff, which I feel would be a great benefit with communication and understanding of expectations.

I am currently employed as a Technical Analyst. My primary responsibility is maintaining clear communication and relationship between the company and operations. Providing system administration for the internal systems, developing systems, managing and monitoring uptime. My team works to primitively prevent outages and resolve issues quickly. Our small but efficient team supports several thousand systems and clients in the Las Vegas Valley, as well as the continental us.

In my ten plus professional years of experience, I have attained extensive knowledge in various areas of Information Technology, project management, networking and server administration including hardware and software troubleshooting. I have held several I.T. positions throughout the years with my previous employer at Venetian and Palazzo hotels. I have also provided global support for many I.T related systems and software, gradually being promoted from PC technician to VIP PC Specialist which provided me additional experience in critical decisions for VIP employees, regardless of their geographical location. My final position held with Sands Corp. consisted of managing mission critical security and surveillance systems while maintaining and upgrading existing hardware.

I appreciate the time you have taken review my credentials and having been very much looking forward to this opportunity.

Sincerely,
